

Table 1

Seizure Type	Characteristics
Unprovoked	Seizures that occur in the absence of active central nervous system (CNS) insult or beyond the time interval estimated for acute seizures.
Provoked	Seizures resulting from acute CNS insult including but not limited to metabolic, toxic, structural, infectious, or inflammatory processes.